Farewell from Barney and Amaryllis

After eighteen years here the time has come for Amaryllis and me to move on to the next stage of our life and ministry. We have been greatly blessed here with the wonderful friendship and kindness of many people, and we have enjoyed many memorable and uplifting events, and shared some sad occasions with you as well. We have always been constantly aware of and grateful for the dedication and hard work that so many people devote to their churches and communities: this end of the Clun Valley is not only a very beautiful place to live, but also the envy of many other places for the high quality of its social life, its ability to raise funds for church and local needs, and for its lovingly cared-for churches.

Amaryllis and I are very grateful to have been welcomed into such vibrant and caring communities: it is going to be very hard indeed to say goodbye! We are more grateful than we can say for everything we have shared with you and received from you during our time here, and as we offer you our heartfelt thanks, and wish you farewell, we pray that God will continue to bless and guide you as you enter the next stage of your life here and your ministry to one another. We shall both continue to remember you in our prayers.

With our love and best wishes,

Barney and Amaryllis.

Black News of a White Owl

Bird lovers will be shocked to hear the results of the post mortem carried out on a Barn Owl which was found dead, in March, on Clunton Hill, north of Clunton. The bird had been shot in the chest and, judging by the number of pellet wounds, at close range. Barn Owls are a protected species and the police have been informed, as well as the RSPB.

Barn Owls feed on small rodents and are no threat to anyone's livelihood. So why kill them? There are so few left in the area! Let's hope that whoever pulled the trigger realises the seriousness of his/her action.

If you have any information regarding this incident, please ring Vince Downes on 660369.

Recipe Correction

Apologies for missing out a vital ingredient in Barbara Freeman's Muffin Recipe which appeared in the June issue. It should have included $\frac{3}{4}$ cup of vegetable oil. My fault not Lin Brown's who contributed the piece.

Notes on Clunbury Parish Council Meeting

Held on 28 July in Clunton VH

Present: 8 councillors, the Clerk and one member of the public

Apologies: Sandra Morgan

Minutes from the Annual Parish Council Meeting were agreed. Matters arising regarding Byway Open to All Traffic at Cwm Lane Cottage, Ashbeds and Clunbury Mains Drainage are still not resolved. Schools reorganisation was discussed: negotiations regarding a possible collaboration between Clunbury, Clun, Bucknell and Newcastle schools are on-going. In the absence of a response from the Parish Council, Shropshire Council have followed the wish of the parishioners as expressed in the Parish Plan regarding housing development.

Local Joint Committee: vice chairman John Croxton reported that some grants had been accorded to a number of projects – Clunton Village Hall for example. However, there is still £19,000 left to distribute before next February (the money will not be carried over to another year). Applications for projects benefiting the community should be sent to John Croxton as soon as possible.

Parish Plan: John Hoskins had drawn up a list of outstanding action points, the unresolved ones being as follows:

Notice Board at Purslow: investigations regarding a small off-the-shelf or bespoke board.

Litter picking: some interest has been shown, but a volunteer is needed to organise and lead the work. Anybody willing? Please contact John Hoskins on 660192 or The Parish Post.

Speeding traffic: the problems of exits from Kempton were discussed in view of a recent accident. Could something else be done to calm down the traffic, particularly at milking time?

A review of the Parish Plan should take place in 2011.

The Under 5s group will continue to run with Zoe and a new assistant (the post has been advertised), when Amaryllys leaves.

Correspondence: Shropshire Council is running a Community Tree Scheme by which free trees can be claimed between now and 2 December for any planting project with public amenity value.

Advanced External Defibrillator: in rural areas such as ours, knowing how to use a defibrillator (to restart the heart) can make the difference between life and death. Training is available for anyone interested. The next session will take place at the Kangaroo on 14 August. Contact E Jones for more details: (jonesmardu@btinternet.com)

Next meeting: 29 September in Clunbury Village Hall at 8.00 pm.

Clunbury Hill, a Poem by Margaret Austin

Sun blessed and moon blessed
Is Clunbury Hill.

Though far from its aura
I think of it still.

Its curve of protection,
The village below.

Its bracken bronze Autumn-ness,
Its lure in the snow.

Those whinberry Summers
And Spring-time's green glow,

My spaniel beside me
The walks we would go.

Alone on the hilltop,
The silence. The sky.

Clun Valley horizons,
And buzzards on high.

Many will probably remember Margaret, who used to live in Tansy Cottage, Clunbury. She now lives in Hereford.
